Produce News

Alert:

The Salinas Valley has been hit hard with issues on most commodities stemming from very inconsistent weather patterns. Tropical Storm Lidia has caused rain and humidity; this combined with the fluctuating temperatures has taken a great toll on Lettuces, Tender Leaves and Brassicas. Industry wide reduced yields are expected to run through the remainder of the Salinas season in mid-November. Please talk to your sales rep regularly for updates.

Asparagus – Supply continues to be very limited this week; rain in Baja will slow everything down. Market will be very expensive for the rest of the month.

Berries:

- Blackberries – The weather in Mexico has negatively impacted crop condition and harvest operation; expect quality issues to come up. Rain in Watsonville is expected this week and will result in harvest delays and quality issues.
- Blueberries – Supply will be tighter this week due to heavy demand; quality has been steady from Peru. Organic blueberries are gapping; Pacific Northwest is done and expected to move to Peru next. Mexico is starting slowly, and expected to improve this week, and the quality report is good.
- Raspberries – Watsonville production is steadily slowing down, quality is hit and miss due to rains. Mexico supply will improve with Central Mexico expected to cover 75% of demand the rest of the month.
- Strawberries – Growers in Watsonville/Salinas are taking a day-by-day approach on decision to harvest due to field conditions. Mexico volume is down due to recent rain and cooler temps; quality report from field indicates soft fruit and heavy white shoulders. Market is expensive this week.

Chicories: Brisa Ranch's Organic Mixed Chicories are in stock. The 3lb pack could have the following varieties: Palla Rosa, Pan Di Zuccherò, Rosa Di Verona, Castle Franco, Tardivo & Chioggia Varregatta. Babe Farms Blond Frisee supplies are steady. Conventional Treviso and Castelfranco will be limited until harvest moves to the Le Grand growing area; Radicchio supply is steady.

Lettuces: Locally grown Butter Lettuce, Sweet Gems, Green & Red Leaf, Iceberg & Greenleaf Singles are all finished in the Salinas Valley for the season. Petite and Jumbo Romaine Hearts are under very limited allocation for the rest of the growing season. We are trying to secure supplies from other vendors as available but options are limited and we may not be able to fill demand. We have transitioned Green leaf, Red leaf & Romaine Lettuce to Ventura County growers until the Yuma area starts in late November. Hitchcock Farms Baby Iceberg Lettuce and Tanamura & Antle's Artisan Mix supplies are limited; prices are up and subject to gapping until the Huron season starts in a couple of weeks. Brisa Ranch's mixed Salanova Lettuces are back in stock.

Tomatoes – Market is expected to take a jump as the Northern Baja growing area starts to slow down and the Southern Baja growing area is delayed by rain. Both round and roma tomatoes are expected see a price increase this week. Mexico-grown Grape and Cherry tomato supplies are steady with good quality and steady prices. Mexico-grown Toybox Cherry tomato supply is limited, and quality has been hit and miss the past weeks. Cherry Tomato on the Vine supply continues to be limited and quality is hit and miss from Mexico & California. Campari tomatoes are available by 2day preorder. Mixed Heirloom tomato supply is limited from Mexico, and California quality is hit and miss.
