MARKET REPORT

SUPPLY & QUALITY UPDATES

FRESH ORIGINS

Squash blossoms are limited, production on the rebound within the next week. Farmer Market pre-orders a good option.

BLACKBERRY AND RASPBERRY

Supplies are tight and expensive as Mexican volume declines. California production can't keep up with foggy weather in the growing areas. It will remain elevated until production increases on the West Coast.

LETTUCE

Supplies continue to improve through California as production ramps up. Prices are varied on romaine hearts. Overall quality is good but weights are lighter as crews trim and peel outer leaves to manage insect pressure and disease.

IDAHO RUSSETS

Supplies remain tight while quality is sub par. The warm winter caused bruising and premature breakdown. Large sized potatoes are affected the most. We won't see relief until new crop starts up mid-August. The upcoming crop has also dealt with frost, warmer temps, and limited irrigation water.

BLUEBERRY

Blueberries are limited as Central Mexico has finished and the Pacific Northwest has started slowly. Rain has also delayed some harvests. Michigan is starting off light as they have been dealing with high temperatures.

SUPPORTING LOCAL FARMS

BARRON FAMILY FARMS

Tulare County and San Joaquin County

Following several years of managing Scott Farm, the Barron Family recently took over ownership and rebranded as their own family farm. Two different growing regions give them the opportunity to capture summer stone fruit favorites such as cherries, nectarines, peaches and apricots as well as table grapes and figs.
